LETTER 'RIP

Cat football Tom Ripper gets set to hit heads with crushing force from Utah State during last week's game. Tom and mates hope to trump a few Sun Devils from Arizona State in home finale tomorrow.

Before It Is Trite' Licked Corn Pops

The oft-spoken cliché will come drama in the Smith Fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today as among the Chicks, or How it opened Before It Was Trite' goes to BYU.

During the Skits-O-Frantic edition, five clubs and halls present the cream of 32 skits used in competition to perform at the student body. This year's finalists are the Fifth rd, directed by Glenn Tinsley, Young Hall, LeAnn Higgins, Jesse Hall, Darryl Gibson, the venterth Ward, Lance Adkins, and the Eighty-Second rd, Jahnna Rasmussen.

THEY JUDGE

The production will be judged by Mrs. Ernest L. Wilkinson, former Fox of the Deseret News, Dick Candel of Radio EBY, Kim Cameron, vice president of culture, and a student who will be chosen at the schoolhouse tonight.

Between skits, the audience will hear the sound of The Smokey Mountain Smoke Jumpers Blue Grass Orchestra, with Walter Ames on the guitar, Doug Ames, sax, Harry Schatz, bass, and Tony Dufiero, Spanish mandolin.

Doug has been heard at Park City, while Tony has performed at the Garnet in Hollywood. Harry and Walt played together at the Saki Olympic Stadium in Japan. All four performers are BYU students.

Steve Hunkley, coordinator of Skits-O-Frantic, says of the coming entertainment, "Just think of all the clichés that have been coined, and you can well imagine what a concerted effort to present them will be like."

According to Kika Worley, Culture Office adviser, this year's skits are some of the finest the annual production has had.

Admission will be free and will be on a first-come, first-seated basis.

DOING ITS THING

in the Smith Fieldhouse at 8 p.m. tonight will be The Smokey Mountain Smoke Jumpers Blue Grass Orchestra, with Walter Ames, Harry Schatz, Tony Dufiero and Doug Ames. They will play between acts at Skits-O-Frantic. Admission is free.

Final Home Game...

Cougars Take On Sun Devils

By John Robinson
Asst. Sports Editor

Twenty seniors will be out to make their final home appearance a victorious one when the Cats take on Arizona State's explosive Sun Devils tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. If the Sun Devils are to remain in contention for the WAC crown, they must defeat Coach Tom Hedgpeth's grid machine. ASU is 5-1 in conference play, having dropped a 28-14 decision to Wyoming while downing UIPE, New Mexico and Utah. The Sun Devils 34th title doubt as to the capabilities of their offense in their last two outings against New Mexico and Utah.

Against the Lobos they were down 28-7 at halftime and then came back with 56 points the second half to annihilate New Mexico, 63-28. Utah jumped off to a 7-0 lead and were then methodically crunched into the ground, 59-21.

But is powerful in ASU is, the 'Devils can be had. Wyoming and Oregon State—a team which Utah almost beat—proved that.

BYU has proven that it can rise to the occasion Wyoming, for one, was happy to leave Cougar Stadium with a 20-17 victory as they did against the Cowpokes, the Sun Devils might be crunched Devils by mid-afternoon.

It could happen. Although ASU boasts what many feel is the fastest backfield in the country, the outcome of the game will be decided by the team that hits the hardest.

Said Coach Frank Kush after his 'Devils had been lamed by Wyoming, "I would gladly trade some speed for a few more guts." Oregon State's Beavers had little heed to ASU's speed and methodically crushed them 28-9. BYU, like Wyoming and Oregon State, is a tough team to run against. Where the Cats have been hurt this year has been pass defense.

The Cat offense could determine the outcome of the

Johnson To Consult With Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon announced Thursday an unprecedented agreement with President Johnson that Nixon be consulted in advance of assuming office on all major foreign policy decisions.

Nixon named a veteran trouble shooter, former ambassador Robert D. Murphy, 74, as his personal representative in every foreign policy area to the outgoing administration.

"This is one of those periods," Nixon told a news conference, "in which no consultations can be written and no position papers can be written which can cover the situation."

"I don't think that the cause of world peace can afford a period of 60 days in which everybody is waiting for the next president," Nixon said.

The agreement—made at the insistence of both men, Nixon said—covers a broad sweep of

Coeds Portray Dress Problems

Since the question of dress standards still seems to be up in the air, and because many dresses are still up in the air, the UNIVERSE sponsored a poll of sorts conducted by a somewhat discriminate interviewer. Following are the findings of the randomly-taken survey. INTERVIEWER: Ah, here comes a lovely looking young thing. Ahem, would you mind giving your comments about short skirts and the like? KNOBBY-KNEES-NELLIE: I like 'em and so do the boys. Some people think I have ugly legs. Well, it takes one to know one, I always say. Anyway, it's the skirt that counts—not the legs. INTERVIEWER: Ah, thank you for your very understandable answer . . . Well well, what, uh who is this here? Would you mind giving your opinions about the so-called short length attire flaunting around campus? ANKLE-LENGTH-ANNIE: I'm wearing a hand-me-down from my great aunt, who was one of the prettiest things around, in her day. I'll keep wearing my dresses at the ankles because someday the hems will return where they belong. I mean, really, the idea of showing a girl's calf was pretty risqué at one time. I do declare that mini-skirts are immoral. INTERVIEWER: Ah, that's what I like to hear—a return to the basic premises upon which this country was founded . . . Well, here comes a rather common looking coed. Uh, Miss, would you please state your feelings about mini, micro-mini, and that type of thing? PUDGY-LEG-PETUNIA: Oh, skirts. Well man, mini skirts are in, and if you aren't in one, you just aren't in it. It's kind of like a circus—you've got to be ready for the thrills and chills. INTERVIEWER: How profound—I'm impressed with your astute level of reasoning . . . Oh, excuse me, uh Miss, would you please articulate on your beliefs concerning lack of skirt length? MINI-MARY: Oh, it's there—short length I mean—it's just a matter of interpretation. Anyway, I think it's my own business how I want to look. It's my Constitutional right. Anyway, I can't buy a dress at a store in the very near vicinity long enough to meet dress standards. It's their problem—not mine. INTERVIEWER: Indeed—I am again taken aback by such an educated reply . . . Oh, hi. You seem to be a very unusual girl—maybe your opinions on long, uh, short skirts, would add to our survey. NO-SHOW-SALLIE: Well, you know—I don't believe in being overly showy, but I also think that something should be left to the imagination. That's my greatest asset, I believe. INTERVIEWER: Well, fine, and thank you . . . Hm, here is an even more unique-looking girl. Maam, would you please verbiatone on your feelings of the trend toward mininess in dress? PRUDENT-PATTY: You see so many extremes in fashions nowadays. A person has to use his or her best judgment in what to wear, and I don't think it's a matter of keeping up with style as it is to make your dress attractive. To me, the knee is where I aim. INTERVIEWER: Wow—wait till the students hear about this!

And so ends the first episode in the polling life of our fearless interviewer. Maybe his findings will help in better understanding some of the recent trends in dress.

SOUNDING BOARD

Editor:

Recently we received a contract from the 1969 Banyan for organization pages. This contract states that group pictures will cost $50 for one full page. It does not mention a price for half pages; however, it does state that no half pages of individual pictures will be sold.

Are we to believe that half-page pictures for clubs or groups are no longer available? If so, how will this effect Banyan representation of the 25 to 40 groups that have purchased half pages in the past? As for us "poor folk" of the range, we cannot afford the price of a full page but would still like to be represented.

Dear Bill:

Half pages cost $30 this year, according to Merwin Fairbanks, publications adviser. The deadline for applying is Nov. 15, (today) so better hurry if you want in the book. The size of the group is limited to 40 for group pictures. The Banyan number is Ext. 3166.

Thanks for writing,

Perspective

Man With A Purpose

By Glen Willard

Captain DeVore Baker is an explorer with a purpose.

He has brought recognition to himself by braving the stormy small raft and has drifted on an ocean current from the California to Hawaii—proving the early inhabitants of those islands came from America.

From his discoveries historians will have to rewrite textbooks. Right now he is waiting for his home city of Redondo Beach, Calif., to O.K. him to build his sixth raft—Lehi VI, which he plans to take around the world on ocean currents.

One particular part of that journey of special interest will be crossing the Pacific Ocean from the nation of Oman to Central America—proving for certainty the Book of Mormon migration route.

Already Dr. Roger R. Revelle, internationally known oceanographer, said plans of Capt. Baker could be successful, and the trip would take 340 days (current move about 40 miles a day). That's just four days different from what it took Lehi.

Capt. Baker began his adventures on the Pacific in 1948 in an attempt to prove the theories of the Book of Mormon were false to who was a member of The Church.

But through his exploring adventures he discovered the priest tried to discredit were right—he was converted to The Church. Life underwent some cataclysmic changes. Today his adventures have proven the Book of Mormon theory to the world. In three months Capt. Baker will premiere the "Voyage of Lehi IV," a motion picture of four men and a dog who challenge the raft.

SECRETARY OF PEACE

But adventure on the seas is not the only thing Capt. Baker pursues. On his next voyage he will promote a "Secretary of Peace," which would have the same rank as other Cabinet posts of the chief executive of the U.S.

Capt. Baker passed through Provo this week and stopped to present his plans at a brief informal meeting. "We've got to use our industrial power for peace reasons," 51-year old captain. "We can stop the third World War, by amount of support has to come from the young people." He eyes on BYU for the initial moves.

How will it be done? "By declaring the second testimony to the world," he declared. And what is this testimony?

"That civilized people lived on the American Continent as visited them." Capt. Baker carries films with him as he shows sailing vessels recovered from tombs carved in stone 2,000 years old, aztec calendars that are more correct than the Calendar, ancient models of wheels and observation towers from an advanced civilization used to study heavenly bodies.

LOST KNOWLEDGE

"These cultures and their knowledge of God perished because of self-destruction. The same could happen to us unless we can prevent another war," he stated.

Capt. Baker is taking this message to the world. He's had his life on the line several times in storms on the water with 150 mile-an-hour winds hitting his raft. "I'd give my life for Church," he says, "Because I believe in it."

Ask him why he's doing this and he'll say, "Because this man to get out the public. He was once featured on the TV 'This Is Your Life,' where he declared his testimony of the Mormon to an estimated 18 million viewers.

He is as courageous in declaring his testimony as he is in facing great seas.

Capt. Baker gave a lecture on campus during homecoming when he comes should be interesting—he's a man with a purpose in which BYU should get involved.

Farnsworth To Report On Soil Discovery

An exciting discovery in the plant world will be reported by BYU's Dr. Raymond B. Farnsworth at the annual meetings of the American Society of Agronomy this week in New Orleans.

Dr. Farnsworth leads a team of soil scientists at BYU which has discovered that nodules on the roots of one of the western sage, artemesia ludoviciana, contain micro-organisms which produce important nitrogen in the soil. Dr. Farnsworth also has found nodules on prickly pear cactus but has not isolated organisms connected with them.

It has long been known that legume crops such as alfalfa, clover and soybeans are able to use nitrogen from the air to enrich the soil due to the presence of nodules on their roots in which micro-organisms live. These serve as agents to fix nitrogen in the soil which plants can use.

However, the idea of nitrogen-fixation by the other plants is entirely new.

"The importance of non-leguminous plants as a nitrogen source is only now being appreciated," Dr. Farnsworth said. "It is possible that the nodulated non-leguminous plants contribute as materially to the nitrogen in the soils in which they grow as do the legumes."

He envisions that in the future proper management of much of the existing wildland, range and forests might include certain specific nodulated non-legumes for the improvement of the nitrogen economy of the soil.

Cactus was the most recent plant to come under Dr. Farnsworth's scrutiny. He found the nodules are profuse but small.

BYU Instructor Now A Knight

By Tom Pezel
Universe Staff Writer
BYU has its own knight-in-residence.

On Oct. 23, 1967, at the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, the Republic of Panama decorated Lt. Col. Vernon J. Tipton, now a BYU instructor, with the "Order of Vasco Nunez De Balboa," in the grade of "Caballero (Knight)". Tipton was knighted in recognition of his co-editorship of "Ectoparasites of Panama."

A bulletin put out by the museum commented that "The book's material on ectoparasites is the most complete study ever made of these biting insects in any tropical country. It contains descriptions, illustrations and environmental studies of hundreds of kinds of fleas, biting flies, chiggers, ticks and other bloodsucking insects.

"The book is already being used in vital bio-medical surveys now underway along proposed routes for a new canal linking the oceans. The surveys are aimed at determining what disease carriers are present along the proposed routes so that measures taken for their control."

Personnel Dept. Finds Student Jobs

There are approximately 4,500 students employed on campus this fall, according to Don K. Lyman, staff supervisor of employment. Approximately another 3,050 are employed off campus.

The kinds of jobs held by students are many and varied. Labor, custodial, grounds, food services workers, stenographers, clerical, sales and skilled crafts are the most numerous types of jobs, Lyman said.

A student seeking employment may contact the Personnel Dept., D-261 Student Administration Bldg. in person, and keep in touch with that department on a regular basis until employment is found.

The best time to seek work is before the beginning of a semester. However, during a semester jobs develop from day to day as students terminate from their positions for one reason or another, Lyman said.

Important factors in securing a job are skills which the student possesses and his class schedule. For best results in obtaining employment a student should have his free hours available for work arranged in a block of three or preferably four hours at the same time each day, he said.

Besides referring students to campus departments which have openings, the Personnel Dept. receives a number of job listings from downtown employers.

Pigskin Prognostications

The Daily Universe board of prognosticators again invites BYU students and faculty to challenge its predictions for the top football games across the nation this weekend.

To enter the competition, simply clip the "prognostication sheet," circle the teams at the left you think will win in each case, write your name and telephone number on the top, and take clipping to the Universe Office, 538 Wilkinson Center before 5 p.m. today (Friday).

The person submitting the entry with the most correct predictions will have his predictions next week appear alongside those of the permanent hostess. If scores are included, they will decide the winner in the event of a tie.

Each week's winner will also be the recipient of a $2 gift certificate from the BYU Bookstore.

This week's guests are Don Wood, ASBYU vice president of athletics and Kent Peterson, last week's top grid forecaster.

Y Ruggers

Play Sat.

BYU students, faculty and visitors will have the opportunity of watching BYU's nationally-ranked rugby squad in action in Cougar Stadium Saturday immediately after the conclusion of the Arizona State-BYU football game.

The game will match BYU, ranked 15th in the nation for the 1967-68 season according to "Rugby USA" magazine, and Bountiful, a strong squad sponsored of University of Utah and Weber State athletes.

This year's squad is much stronger than last year's and should rank even higher during this rugby season.

Those who stay to watch the rugby game will see such exciting players as Gideon Malle and Inacke Funaki from the Tongan Islands; Wally Josephs from New Zealand; John Ririe, who played several seasons in New Zealand; Dale Johanson, whose kicking game sparks the whole team; and former BYU varsity athletes such as Sid Frazier and Duane Gettman (football); and Russ McAdams, Larry Hardin and Bob Gunther (wrestling).

Adds To BYU Image ...

Ex-Cougar Jim Eakins Sparks 'Oaks'

Ex-BYU standout Jim Eakins is playing a large role in establishing the American Basketball Association as a permanent fixture on the U.S. sports scene.

As a semi-regular on the Oakland Oaks franchise in the year-old rival to the National Basketball Association, Eakins has attracted a good deal of attention in his rookie year, though playing in the shadow of the great Rick Barry.

In pre-season competition Eakins, though playing in a substitute role, tied for team leadership in rebounds with Barry and averaged in double figures in scoring. In a contest earlier this week, Eakins actually outscored Barry, 32 to 31.

He and former New Mexico star Ira Harge are in a battle for the starting position at center.

Utilizing a fast-break offense with which Eakins became very familiar at BYU, the Oaks have been transformed from a cellar-dweller to the class of the ABA under the tutelage of Alex Hannum, considered by many to be the top coach in the profession.

That Eakins is a vital cog in the high-scoring Oaks machine is attested to by a rival coach, James (Babe) McCarthy of the New Orleans Buccaneers, following a loss to Oakland: "I still think Oakland is the class of the league. But I thought we did a good job defensively until that Eakins broke it open."

Hannum agreed: "Jim studied his man, 'Red' Robbins, from the bench in the early part of the game and then did a whole of a job. We brought him in early and he played a very strong game besides getting the clutch points."

The 6'11" Eakins, starting center for the Cougars last season, has helped the Oaks get off to a fast start.

Oakland held a four-game lead after 10 games with a 9-1 mark before being knocked off by Denver Tuesday night. Playing for Denver-Jeff Congdon and John Fairchild, also ex-Cougars.

Games Area 'Classic'

A Saturday Night Classic, sponsored by the Games Area of the Wilkinson Center, begins tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

There will be competition in bowling, table tennis, shuffleboard, football and chess. Trophies will be awarded according to the amount of points received during the year.

"These Saturday evening competitions should really be a lot of fun," commented one Games Area worker. "Bring a date and participate with her," he added.

All culture staff members are asked to attend the staff meeting on Monday, Nov. 18 at 1:30 p.m. at the UNIVERSE office on the fifth floor of the Wilkinson Center. It is necessary for all writers to attend.

Offensive Line...

Cougars' Unsung Gridiron Heroes

By Bob Oakley
Universe Sportswriter

Third down and 20 yards to go for a BYU first down. Jones faces back and hits Romero with a bullet pass. The gain is good enough for the first down, but what made the play click?

BYU's average fan sees only the successful pass play and hasn't noticed the tough offensive line play that gave BYU's quarterback sufficient time to pick out an end in the open and direct a pass to him.

SPACE FILLERS

To most gridiron fans, the members of the offensive line are nothing more than space fillers. But the Cougar coaching staff and running backs know that the Puma offense won't be able to move the pigskin without a talented offensive line that is doing its job.

The offensive line duties are to block out defensive linemen and prevent them from getting to the ball carrier when he is trying to pass or scrambling for extra yardage. He is also given the burden of opening up holes in the defensive for the running backs to slide through.

MIKE LOPER

Mike Loper, a Cougar stalwart at offensive tackle, states that speed and agility are two of the most important assets to an offensive lineman. Mike, a 6-4 by 235 pounds of football muscle, comments that the biggest problem faced by the offensive lineman is trying to pick up the defensive man's "stunts."

The mechanical engineering senior from Scottsdale, Ariz., tabs Wyoming's Cowboys as the best defensive line that the Cougars have faced during the 1968 grid wars. "They were just plain tough," is how Mike puts it.

ASU UPSET

Forecasting tomorrow's game, Mike is optimistic. "Though ASU has a great team, utilizing numerous speed merchants, I'm not going out there to lose and nobody else on the team is either, he stated emphatically."

Deep in a losing season, with what seems like very little hope of climbing out, Cat gridgers possess a strong will to win. Their will to win isn't deterred by statistics or predictions and even comes through over sportswriters, including females, who see nothing but gloom in a losing season.

CHARACTER BUILDER

Football's purpose is to develop fine athletes who have the will to win and work together. Players, when they leave the football field, carry the spirit of good sportsmanship and friendly competition with them.

Mike would like to see more recognition for the offensive linemen, "for they work as hard as anyone else on the field," he adds.

Mike also criticized BYU "fans" who complain about the team and write unjust criticism about the team when they know little or nothing about the game and have obviously refrained from getting any substantial information.

Yosh Need Yell Leaders

BYU freshmen basketball players off against the BYU team to inaugurate the small season as a bid-offer played for Nov. 23.

A heavy of freshmen leaders will be needed to the freshmen cheering section at that game," noted Kent Olson, ASBYU Athletic Office vice assistant.

A meeting for all interested BYU freshmen that would like to try out for the cheerleading berths will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. in 180 Knight Hall.

Six cheerleaders are needed and will be chosen from a field of both boys and girls. Last year's judges showed an affinity for femininity, as three boys and two girls were selected to represent the freshmen class as yell leaders.

Officials Meet

"All persons that have an interest in officiating BYU M-Men and Intramural basketball are invited to meet Friday at 5 p.m. in room 202 of the RPE bldg," announced Ron Swapp, intramurals publicity chairman.

Rocky Mountain Society Meets At BYU Today

Today the Rocky Mountain Chapter of the American Musiological Society convenes at BYU.

The society, an organization of scientists of music who make a detailed study of what music really is, will meet for their annual conference and presentation of papers.

BYU's Gerrit de Jong, Jr., current chairman of the Rocky Mountain chapter, explains that BYU has hosted a society meeting before. He goes on to tell that the members are still talking about the amazing conference which was held eight years ago in Provo. "Hopefully," expressed Dr. de Jong, "this year's conference will be even better."

CONCERT

The highlight of today's meetings will be a concert of chamber music. Beginning at 5 p.m. in the Madsen Recital Hall, this special program will present two ancient instrument groups which include recorders, oboes, a harpichord, a viola da gamba and krumphorns.

The groups will perform works by the Renaissance Heinrich Isaac and the renowned Baroque composer George Philipp Telemann.

The Faculty String Quartet, comprised of Percy Kait, Barbara Williams, Harold Laycock and Letta Boyer, will create a delightful finish for the early

DR. GERRIT DE JONG

... dean of Fine Arts

evening program. They will perform a Mozart quartet and "Quartetsatz" by Gerit de Jong, Jr.

BYU was selected for the AMS conference largely because of the Music Department's reputation in musicology. The meetings not only provide an opportunity for professors to hear and present papers, but give students a chance to learn what is being done in the music world.

The 'Requiem' By Verdi Will Be Performed

The "Requiem" by Giuseppe Verdi will be performed Nov. 21 and 22 by the Oratorio Choir.

The Choir, under the direction of Dr. John R. Halliday and accompanied by the Symphony Orchestra, will sing the mass in behalf of the dead.

"Requiem" consists of seven sections. Verdi was already one of the world's foremost composers when he wrote the "Requiem." He used his most outstanding feature, the choral numbers, to incorporate the final "Requiem."

"The Sanctus" is noted as being especially exciting because of the eight-part fugue for two choirs. Soloists are supported in an advantageous manner by the entire choir—a situation which adds dramatic intensity.

Verdi first conceived the idea for the "Requiem" in 1868. He wanted to pay tribute to the deceased opera composer, Rossini. Verdi composed one section and invited other great composers of the day to participate, but the outcome was so diverse that it could not be performed as one work.

PE. Such a strange little letter word HOPE, and what it means, what does it show?
e years ago, I remember a child waiting anxiously for his morning to come and LIFE: of the arrival of Santa written all over his face

... as the child opened the the hope grew to delight for which was expected was and he was happy, and the HOPE—his hopes were fulfilled then that same child grew with the years. Each year a of that unattainable hope lazzard when the expected not acquired. Then I saw him another occasion, just a week and his hope was completely

... what had happened in the of last to top and that it hope of a child to finally ve complete dissolution of all After some time I thought I the answer, but alas, it was ... on the other day I met a man me back and wanted for me to bring him a book.

I asked if he had any hope this book would serve, he and in the affirmative.

... Oh, of course it will. You see,
I have trust and faith in the an world."

... I wanted there for almost two before I was about ready to up on the person bringing the "I wonder what could have him," I asked.
"Just who?" the man replied.
Why, the person who is the book," I asked.
He looked rather sheepish and nodded in an embarrassed way. "I forgot to ask him to bring me," he murmured.

... That's just the way it works," a friend of mine said to I told her about the man.
people always have ambitious goals they want to achieve they really hope that they reach them. But it's the little of work and dedication in even the rewards that gets lost."

... My friend was right. She had ted to be homecoming er, but due to some mistake mother, had forgotten to turn or application. Normal?
erry now and then (no matter perfect I tell myself that I my hopes are dashed to as because I flubbed up on the end of the deal. One person up because the other day my teacher announced that

We would have our mid-term.

Oh, I surely would not get an
"A" on that test. But I knew that I would have to study. It was great, I had my time all planned out and then it happened (doesn't it always?)—something came up.
Well, as the French say, "C'est La Vie!"

But have you ever stopped to wonder how many thousands of hopes are smashed and ruined each day? What a sobering thought! Who wants to worry about the sobering thoughts, anyway?

Why, there is too much to think about without worrying over something as small as hope or the influences of hope. Our leaders always tell us that "you can achieve anything you want to achieve." This is all we need, that is all I hope for.

The only part of the above sentence that is deleted states, "as long as you work as hard as you can to get it." But that is only a minor qualification—such a small thing it is hardly noticeable to support the "wonder."

That reminds me of the funny thing I saw last week. It just so happens that a few brave souls went to the football game. We had hope (boy, did we have hope) and what happened? We lost. The team tried its hardest and really put in a good show, but because of a few minor details, it seems that there is no hope left.

Is that what the words of the song were saying when they noted, "And I know if I'll always be true to that glorious quest, that my heart will be peaceful and calm when I'm laid to my rest?"
Is that what it takes to achieve the perfect type of HOPE? Does it really take just a little dmy, gray work?

The answer might be contained in the final words of the song.
"And the world will be better for that, that one man came and covered with scars, still drove with his last ounce of courage, to reach the unreachable star."

Pettit Honored As Top Student

By John Robinson
Universe Feature Writer

"Are you kidding me?"

That was the reaction of Bryan Pettit when he learned of his selection as Student-of-the-Week. Bryan is a junior majoring in business.

He has served on numerous committees as well as being in student government. Currently, he is a Social Office executive assistant.

Being attached to the social office has given Bryan many opportunities to develop his outgoing personality. "I am really grateful for being able to come in contact with different people," he stated.

As chairman of the Central Dance Committee, Bryan is in charge of all rock and conventional dances as well as Skyroom specials and other social events.

Upon graduating from BYU, Bryan plans to continue his education at an Eastern college, preferably Harvard. "I really do like Utah though," states the upcoming accountant, "it's not bad for a second place."

California is the "first" place. Bryan lives in Glendale and graduated from Glendale Hoover high school. "Utah would be the greatest if it just had an ocean," he states.

Surfing and swimming are his favorite sports. "I plan to give skiing a try this year though," he quickly added.

If Bryan is as effective at skiing as he is at student government he should do all right. The only question for the returned missionary (Canada) from The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, is when will he find the time?

Textbooks Sell Today

The Bookstore's annual textbook sale was set to begin this morning at 8 a.m. upstairs in the Bookstore, Manager Roger Utley announced.

Students are advised to come early; prices are such that books may be sold out by noon, though the sale is scheduled to run through Saturday. Hard cover texts are 25 cents, paperback books are 10 cents.

Yesterday's UNIVERSE carried a story which said all books were brand new. Many are, but most are used. Glen Coates, textbook manager, said. The sale will still provide some outstanding values, he added, because all books are being offered for less than what they would normally be sold.

Duchess Contest Opens Monday

The search for the Duchess of BYU's Intercollegiate Knights will begin Monday.

The annual contest is open to all coeds who are full-time students and will be returning to BYU next year.

Poise, personality, and talent are criteria in the contest. Contestants must also have a cumulative grade average of 2.5 or better, and must not be plinned, engaged or married.

MONDAY DEADLINE

All interested girls should pick up application forms at the information desk, Wilkinson Center, and return them to the desk by 5 p.m. Monday.

An orientation meeting will be Monday at 7:30 p.m. in room 115, Knight Bldg. However, it is not mandatory to file an application in order to attend the orientation. Girls who attend the meeting are under no obligation to compete in the contest.

BENEFITS

At Monday's orientation, a more detailed explanation of the Duchess contest, including a general description of the responsibilities of the queen will be given. Coeds will also hear a brief introduction to the purpose of the Intercollegiate Knights, and Jalyne Rasmussen, 1967-68 Duchess, will speak.

Allen F. Short, Duke of the Knights, stresses that the orientation is open to anyone without obligation.

As Duchess of the BYU chapter of the IK's, the honored girl will receive a $100 scholarship for the 1969 school year. She will also represent the IK's on campus.

The Duchess will also represent the BYU chapter at regional competitions. S. accorded all the traditionally inherent to as Duchess, and she will meetings of the G chapter.

Bachers Beware - Violators Receive Fine, Loss Of Gun

By Bruce Vassel III
Utah Game Sportswriter

It's a lovely pump 22 rifle with a fine scope down on the Utah Fish and Game report in Provo. The BYU student who owned this $100 pump was caught shooting out of season. In discussing the problem of out-of-season hunting, the Utah Game Department stated, "Although BYU students are usually pretty good, I have a few violators each year. I've heard that it is not worth the cost and loss of their fishing tackle."

plough big limits and open closed seasons on fishing and hunting.

The several hundred thousand hunters and fishermen in Utah could eliminate most of the state's big game and good fishing, if it were in check.

Even with present controls, short hunting seasons and heavy stocking of lakes and rivers each year is necessary to maintain our fish and game populations.

The angler and hunter are very lucky in Utah, for many states have much shorter seasons on fishing and hunting with as good as today's.

extremely small bag limits. Utah has good fishing waters which are open the year around. The hunter can enjoy year-around hunting for grouse, rabbits, bobcats and many more animals and birds.

Whether a hunter in Utah is pleased after graduation, or a home outside the state, good sportsmanship demands more than just out-of-door activities. Knowledge of the laws and the correct effort to live there is the best way in which we can assure ourselves that tomorrow's fishing and hunting will be as good as today's.
